PREFACE

"And the Lord spake unto Moses saying, . . . Take ye the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, after their families, by the house of their fathers, with the number of their names. . . . And they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers. As the Lord commanded Moses, so he numbered them. (Numbers 1:1-2; 18-19). Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father and he will shew thee, thy elders and they will tell thee." (Deut. 32:7)

The oldest institution among men, of which we have any knowledge, is the family. God created Adam and Eve and planted them Eastward in the garden, and from that day to this the fundamental condition of all human society centers in the family. When that fails, everything fails. Under these circumstances it is clearly evident that the first duty, and highest duty, of all wise statesmanship, is to protect, encourage, and purify the family. The Bible, as a whole, is made up almost entirely of incidents in the history of a single family. A nation is simply an aggregation of families. When the family is weak, the nation is weak. If this be true, then it cannot be unwise for a family to consider its conditions and history. In fact, it would seem to be its highest duty to do so, and to put away everything that weakens it, and encourage everything that strengthens it..

In this free and independent country of ours, where the fundamental law of the nation declares that all men were created free and equal, it has been the habit of our people to misapply this declaration to the conditions of nature, instead of legislation, where it belongs. The result has been that to many people it is almost a sin to have had a grandfather. This certainly is a grave mistake. Everyone who considers the subject seriously must know, and every student of biology DOES know, that the governing forces of every life are to a very large extent the forces of heredity.

"For we are the same our fathers have been;
We see the same sights our fathers have seen—
We drink the same stream and view the same sun,
And run the same courses our fathers have run."

In short, we are borne upon the currents of a stream whose fountain head lies far back in the infinite past. We may deflect this stream somewhat; we may purify it somewhat; we may, by skill and courage, evade its rocks and whirlpools somewhat; but nevertheless down that current we must go, and what we get we must get within its ever-flowing waters.

The questions of heredity, therefore, are serious questions—serious to us and serious to those who shall come after us. If the stream is a bad one, let us endeavor to make it better for our children. If we find an ugly rock in its channel, we can at least mark its location as a warning to those who shall come after us. In this light, therefore, Genealogy is not foolishness, but wisdom. In this light Genealogy is "philosophy teaching by example". In this spirit we should consider the facts of our family history.

Among European nations, outside of the Romans, family, or surnames are of comparatively recent origin. The most ancient names that have come down to us, as, for instance, those of the early Hebrews, are distinguished for their simplicity, a single word only constituting the name, as Adam, Noah, Abraham, Moses, David, Solomon. In order to particularize, the name of the father was sometimes added, as David, son of Jesse; or the place from whence he came as Jesus, of Nazareth.

The Egyptians, Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, and Greeks had no surnames.

Surnames have originated in various ways. Some are derived from the names of places; others from offices and professions; from personal peculiarities; from the Christian or proper name of the father; from the performance of certain actions; from objects in the animal, mineral, and vegetable world, and from accidental circumstances of every varied character.

It is impossible to state at what precise period names became stationary, or began to descend hereditarily. According to Camden, surnames began to be taken up in France about the year 1000, and in England about the time of the Conquest, (1066), or a very little before, under Edward the Confessor. In Ireland surnames were not common until 1465, when, under the reign of Edward IV, it was enacted by statute that every Irishman, dwelling within English jurisdiction, should take a surname. In Wales, surnames were still later. In fact, outside of the Latin races, in Europe, surnames did not become common until after the discovery of America, and in Holland they were not universal until within the beginning of the eighteenth century, as will be gathered from the lineages of Sarah Johnson, common ancestress of the Coolbaugh family.

In the adoption of surnames, it became very common to adopt the Christian name of the father, as for example, in England, Johnson, meaning son of John; in Scotland Mac meant son, and hence McGowan, son of Gowan; in Ireland O'Neil was son of Neil; in Welsh Ap Howel was son of Howell; among the Normans Fitz William was son of William; and so in Dutch, Diercksen, son of Dirck. Among the Dutch, however, surnames were more largely derived from places. For example, van meant of, or from, and hence Van Buren meant from the town of Buren; Van Antwerp, from Antwerp, etc.

So, in the same way, occupation, personal peculiarities, or mental characteristics became a surname; and, therefore, through this form of evolution, at some time, the name COOLBAUGH originated.

KOHLBACH and KAULBACH, with variants, are well-known German names, and it is undoubtedly from one of these that the modern name has evolved. It signifies cool brook. The word cool is derived from such words as Anglo-Saxon col; Dutch koel; German kuhl; and baugh or bach, from bache, Anglo-Saxon baec, a rivulet or stream, or the vale or low ground where it flows, being written bach or batch as a suffix in place names.

The history of this family is in every respect worthy of preservation. All the way down, in every generation, are men and women of character and influence in the communities in which they lived.

A thoughtful writer has very truly said: "The genealogy of a family should consist not merely of names in the line of descent." In addition to these it should present biographical sketches of those in the line who ought to be held in everlasting remembrance, thus at once gratifying a natural feeling of the heart and honoring those who have showed themselves worthy of honor. There is an illustration of this in the genealogical tables of the First Book of Chronicles: "And Jabez was more honorable than his brethren", and because he was more honorable he was distinguished by a biographical sketch, while only the mere names of the others are given. At the same time it should be remembered that the most prominent characters are not always the most worthy, and many in obscure positions have deserved from mankind a grateful recognition which they have never received.

It is not easy to compute the amount of time spent during the past decade in the difficult, yet exceedingly pleasant employment of gathering and preserving these mementos of our worthy ancestors. To the many friends who have furnished family records and biographical sketches we are greatly indebted, and trust they will find ample recompense in the assurance that present and future generations will appreciate the aid they have rendered in so good a work. A word of appreciation is especially due those who advanced payment on their orders as a personal favor to the author in doing their bit toward meeting the printer's obligations.

Many people spend considerable sums in erecting valuable but silent tombstones to honor and perpetuate the memory of those who have passed away. On the other hand, a family history will give a vivid and perpetual picture of all their kinsmen and guarantee that their memory will live now and in future days, not only in the hearts of their grandchildren and great-grandchildren, but in the hearts of all who can feel proud to be of the same descent. Possessors of one of these volumes will realize more and more that the records herein preserved will increase in value and usefulness to them with the lapse of years and the advent of a new generation who might otherwise be left in partial or complete ignorance regarding them.

Information regarding collateral branches of the Coolbaugh family had been collected, and it was the original intention of the author to include these with the present work. But as the way was not clear to promote so large a publication at this time, these records must await a more favorable opportunity, when it is hoped they may be released for the benefit of those descendants.

Additional copies of this record may be secured by addressing the author.

The Coolbaugh Family

THOMAS COLBACH (No. 1) is the first of the name of whom we have any record in this country. He was master of the ship THOMAS at New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1686. On 29 Oct. 1686 Thomas Colbach exhibits a libel against his seamon for mutinous conduct; with decrees of the Court, adjudging the parties guilty. 15 Nov. 1686 we find a petition of Thomas Phillips and others, belonging to the ship THOMAS, Thomas Colebrook master, for relief in their imprisonment, affected by said Colebrook's bring them to trial on a charge of mutiny, for which they were condemned and fined.

As we find no further reference to Thomas Colbach in the early New York records, or to others who may have belonged to his family, it is probable that he was not a settler here, although he may have had a son:

2. Johannes, b. 1690, m. Anna Maria Cortselius.

JOHANNES KOELBACK or COOLBACK (No. 2) was undoubtedly our first ancestor on this side of the Atlantic. He was probably born not far from the year 1690, and may have come from Neuwied, near Coblenz, on the Rhine. Hans Dienes Ceubel and vrouw left the Palatinate for America about 5 June 1709. Subsequently we find where Johannes Schoulbagh and his wife, ANNA MARIA COURTSELIUS, had a daughter Margreta, baptized 3 May 1724 in the old Dutch church at New York City. He removed to Harlingen, Somerset Co., N. J., as early as 1727, as the following records show:

He and his wife were charter members of the old Dutch church there:

1727—Gerbrand Peterse, Johannes Koelbagh, Resolvert Waldron, Annetje Bennet, Maria Cortsilius, Jannetje Meyers, Jannetje Steinmetz—admitted by certificate from other churches.

Johannes Coolback witnessed, 18 May 1727, the baptism of Garrte, son of Michael More and Elizabeth Gray, at Harlingen. John Coolback and Maria Cortselius had a son John baptized at Harlingen, 14 Oct. 1730. John Coolbach witnessed the baptism of Benjamin, son of Caleb Habland and Catherine Merrel, 21 Mar. 1731.

The author has been informed that there are no further references to the name Coolbaugh in the records of the Harlingen church. But Johannes remained in this part of the country, and was the owner of real estate there, as we find his name in a tax list of Franklin Tp., Somerset Co., for the year 1735; Johannes Koelbak, 150 acres of land, 5 cattle; tax 1 pound, 1 shilling. There is in existance a tax list for Franklin Tp. for 1745. An abridgement, containing only additional names not listed in 1735, has been published, but the author was unable to locate the original to ascertain if Johannes was still there in 1745. He seems to have returned to New York, as John Coolback was a freeman there in 1758, and Johs Koelback died there 22 Oct. 1760. For convenience, we shall set down the following records in tabular form. Although only hypothetical in nature, except where actual records are cited, it is a close approximation of the truth.

3. William, b. 1720, m. Sarah Johnson.

4. Margreta, bp. 3 May 1724, m. John VanAlla. A marriage license was issued by New York state, 29 Dec. 1762, to John VanAlla and Margaret Koolaback. The marriage of John VanAlla and Margareth Coolbag took place in the New York Dutch church 29 Dec. 1762. We have not found record of any children.

5. John, bp. 14 Oct. 1730, m. Margaret Brinckerhoff. A marriage license was issued by New York state, 17 May 1760, to John Coolbach and Margaret Brinckerhoff. Johannis Colbach d. at New York, 23 Aug. 1771. No children of record.

6. Mary, m. Richard Brinckerhoff; 2d James Blanchard. A marriage license was issued 6 June 1761 by the state of New York to Richard Brinckerhoff to Mary Coolback. The marriage of Richard Brinckerhoff and Mary Coelback was solemnized in the New York Dutch church 7 June 1761. No issue recorded. In the early records of the French Huguenot church of New York we find: Bateme-Elizabeth, fillie de francois Humbert, et de Elizabeth Humbert son Epouse, Nee ——— a Nouvelle York le 23e d'Avril, l'an de grace, Mille Cent Septante et un. etant Batizee en L'Eglise francoise par Msr. Jacques Adam, de Martel, Ministre du St. Evangile, ce jourd 'huy Dimanche 28e. d'Avril de la meme Annee en l'Exercise de l'apres midi, et etant presente au St. Sacrament du Bateme par le Sr. Jacques Blanchard et Dame Marie Coulbac, son Epouse; Ces Parain et Maraine.

J. Adam De Martel, Ministre &
Francois Humbert James Blancaard

7. Catherine, m. George Crolius. The marriage license of George Crolius of New York and Catherine Coolbaugh of New York was issued by the State of New Jersey, 7 May 1763. The marriage of George Grotius and Catharin Coulbag, both residents of New York, took place at Schraalenburgh, Bergen Co., N. J., 7 May 1763. No issue of their own is recorded at New York, but they appear there as witnesses to baptisms several times: Jurriaan Carolius and Catharina Colebach witness the baptism of Nicholas, son of Nicholaas Cregier and Fytje Clokkenaar, 14 Aug. 1763. Jurrie Carolius and Catharina Colbach witness the baptism of Hendrik, son of Hendrik Snyder and Elizabeth Syn, 30 Oct. 1763.

8. Stofol, m. Catherine Tater. A marriage license was issued by New York State, 30 Oct. 1775, to Stofol Coobagh and Catherine Tater. This was very likely the same as Christopher Cowback, who had one free white male over 16, including heads of families; one free while female, including heads of families; and one slave; who was a resident of Rhinebeck, Dutchess Co., N. Y., in 1790. If both references are to the same party, the absence of the letter "L" in the middle of the name in both cases might indicate that he was of a different family from the foregoing.

Our inquiry into the origin of the Coolbaugh family carried us back into the early archives of the State of Pennsylvania, from which the following notes have been gleaned:

KELBACH. (9). Joh. Kelbach came to Philadelphia in the St. Andrew galley, 24 Sep. 1737.

KALBACH, KALPACH, KOLPACH, GALLBACH. (10). Philip Kalbach or Gallbach came to Philadelphia from the Palatinate in the ship St. Mark, 26 Sep. 1741. Philip Kolpach took up 100 acres of land in Bucks Co., 31 May 1743. Philip Kalpach took out a warrant for 50 acres of land in Philadelphia county, 3 Jan. 1749.

KAULBACH. (11). Franz Wilh Kaulbach came to Philadelphia in the ship Aurora, 8 Oct. 1744.

KUBATZ. (12). Vallentin Kubatz came to Philadelphia in the Edinburgh, 5 Sep. 1748.

KALBACH, KEILBACH, KYLBACH. (13). Christoph Keilbach or Kylbach came from the Palatinate or the Duchy of Wirtemberg in the ship Patience, 19 Sep. 1749. Christopher Keilbach took out a warrant for 100 acres of land in Philadelphia, 17 Nov. 1749, and 50 acres in Tulpehocken Tp., Berks Co., 5 Jan. 1759. His son Adam Kalbach took out a warrant for 200 acres of land in Berks Co., 5 Apr. 1787, and 218 acres, 22 Sep. 1787.

KUHBAUCH, KULBACH. (14). Matheus Kuhbauch, or Kulbach came to Philadelphia, 27 Sep. 1752, in the ship Anderson.

KAHLBACH. (15). Henry Kahlbach came to Philadelphia in the Forest, 11 Oct. 1752.

KUHBACH. (16). Christian Kuhbach came to Philadelphia, 22 Nov. 1752 in the Phoenix.

KOLBECK. (17). Georg Friedrich Kolbeck came to Philadelphia in the Louisa, 3 Oct. 1753.

The following are from early marriage records of Pennsylvania churches:

KALLBACH. (18). George Bernard Renn and Anna Maria Kallbach were m. in the Lutheran church, New Hanover, Montgomery Co., 3 June 1746.

KILLBACH. (19). George Kerst and Elizabeth Killbach were m. in St. Michaels and Zion church, Philadelphia, 19 Aug. 1759.

KILLBACH. (20). Daniel Golden and Catharine Killbach were m. in St. Michaels and Zion Church, Philadelphia, 3 Aug. 1762.

COLBATH, COLEBATH, COOLBROTH, CALBREATH, GALBRAITH, etc. (21). It has been suggested that possibly there was a connection between the modern Coolbaugh family and families of New England bearing the above names, which are descended from the Galbraith family of ancient Scotch nobility. While such a lineage is feasable, as there were quite a number of New Englanders who settled in New Jersey, nothing has been discovered in support of this theory. These names originated in two Gaelic words, "Gall", and "Bhretan", meaning the stranger Britain. The various forms of spelling may be attributed to the fancy of some cadets of the family who, as younger sons, established junior branches in new localities; and to such early scribes as received the pronunciation of names from men of foreign accent. FOURTEEN different forms of spelling have been found on old documents in New England, and the above have been adopted by American branches of the family.

As intimated, the families bearing these names are of Scottish derivation. The earliest of whom we have found mention were Gillespic Galbrait (1230 A. D.), and Arthur Galbrait (1296 A. D.), who swore fealty to King Edward I. William Galbraith is mentioned as a person "of good account" in the middle of the fourteenth century. Cadets of the family early intermarried with the lordly houses of Douglass and Hamilton, and through such alliances became possessed of extensive estates in Scotland, where they have continued.

COOLBROTH. (22). John Coolbroth, with several brothers, came from England and settled at Newington, N. H. He removed to Scarboro, Me., about 1730. Other ancestors of the name, of Scotch-Irish lineage, came over in 1718. John Coolbroth m. Sarah Harmon in Scarboro, 17 Oct. 1732. His son George, m. Rebecca, da. Squire Edward Milliken in 1762.

COOLBAUGH. (No. 3, ante). Let us now return our attention to William Coolbaugh, progenitor of the modern family of that name. We shall not assert his relationship to those previously referred to, though he was the right age to have been a son of Johannes. The fact that Johannes was in this country as early as 1724, and settled at Harlingen, N. J., only a few miles from where we first find record of William, is very strong circumstantial evidence favoring such a relationship. Furthermore, that William married a lady who was born in America, and whose home was in the same locality is equally weighty support. It has been alleged that William was born in Germany. He might have been brought to this country by his parents when a small child. Previous historians have estimated his birth as taking place about 1729. The present writer would be disposed to look for one somewhat earlier.

Records pertaining to our ancestors are very meagre, which accounts for the uncertainty surrounding him. Our first reference is to Dr. Coleback of Amwell Tp., Hunterdon Co., N. J., mentioned in the inventory of the estate of Charles Duboys of that place, 24 May 1750. The early German settlers of this region had a church at Amwell, but its records have been lost. Tunis Hoppock of Amwell, in his will dated 2 July 1771, bequeathes to his son Cornelius a farm of 100 acres which he had bought from Doctor Coolbauh. The term "Doctor" in German is used to designate a man of learning rather than of medicine. William Coolbaugh was well-educated. His sons were men of learning and leadership in the communities where they settled, so it is easy to attribute their early advantages along these lines to a father of extraordinary attainments for those times. William was a sea-captain by occupation. He is mentioned incidentally in an old newspaper advertisement of a Sheriff sale in Kingwood, where he lived:

> Westfield, East-New-Jersey, 18 May 1778. By virtue of a writ of fieri Facias to me directed, will be exposed to sale by way of publick vendue, the 4th of August next ensuing, at the premises a PLANTATION, situated in Kingwood, Hunterdon Co., West-New-Jersey, bounded by lands of Richard Opdyce, Esq., and others, whereon William Coolbock now lives, containing about 66 acres; there is on it a good dwelling-house. The vendue to begin at 2 o'clock, and conditions made known by Joseph Inslee, Sheriff.

William died at Amwell in 1779, and letters of administration were granted to Hannah Coolbock. The inventory, made 11 Mar. 1779, showed a valuation of £168.4.6.

About 1750 our ancestor m. SARAH JOHNSON of Amwell, who was bp. 6 Apr. 1724 in the Dutch church at Port Richmond, Staten Island, da. Cornelius and Sarah (Manbrut). Her first known ancestor was Wouter van der Bosch, who lived at Ravesteyn, on the Meuse river, near Grave, Holland. He had a son, Jan Wouter van der Bosch b. in 1638. The latter came to New York in the ship FAITH with his wife and daughter, Feb. 1659, and settled at Flatbush, L. I. He is variously known as Jan Wouters van der Bosch, Jan Wouters van Bosch, Jan Woutersen, Jan Wooters, and John Wooters. He swore allegiance to Great Britain after the surrender of New Netherland in 1664, and owned salt meadows at Flatbush, L. I., in 1667. In 1667 he removed to Branford, Conn., where he remained ten years, then returned to Flatbush, where he and his wife were members of the Dutch church in 1677. He had removed to New York before 1695. He was a master-shoemaker by trade.

His first wife, ARENTJE ARENTS, who came with him from Holland, d. in 1666, and he m. (2) WEYNTJE PIETERS MEET of Amersfoort, N. Y. Her father, Peter Jansen Meet (i. e., Mead) came from Amersfoort, Utrecht, Holland, in the ship ROSETREE, Mar. 1663, and took the oath of allegiance to the English at New York in 1664. He obtained a patent for two lots of land at Brooklyn ferry in 1667, and bought land at Bushwick about 1680. He removed to Hackensack, N. J., where he d. about 1697.

Jan Wouters van der Bosch and Weyntje Pieters Meet had a son, Jacob, b. at Branford, Conn., 31 Dec. 1672, who adopted Johnson as his surname (after his father's Christian name John). His mother was sometimes known as Weyntje Pieters, after her father's Christian name, and sometimes as Meet, (Dutch inflection for Mead, their surname). Jacob Johnson m. SARAH BENHAM of Wallingford, Conn., and settled on Staten Island. She b. 6 Sep. 1676, da. Joseph and Winifred (King), and gda. of John Benham, who came to Dorchester, Mass., in the ship MARY & JOHN, 1630. Joseph Benham removed to New Haven, Conn., thence to Wallingford in 1670, when that town was founded.

Jacob Johnson subsequently settled at Amwell, N. J., where he made his will, 18 July 1752. His son Cornelius was bp. in the Staten Island Dutch church, 20 Apr. 1703, and remained at that place until after 1728. He was a settler on the West Jersey Society's lands at Amwell in 1735. His first wife was SARAH MANBRUT, mother of our Sarah Johnson Coolbaugh. She was born at New York City, 13 Sep. 1703, da. Jean and Sarah (Gano). Her father, a Huguenot, was at New York as early as 1688. Her maternal g gf., Francis Gano or Gerneaux, was also a Huguenot, being one of the earliest refugees of that faith to come to America. He was born about 1620, and it is related that, one of his neighbors having been martyred, a faithful servant of this deceased friend informed Gerneaux that he was doomed to the same fate, and that he was to suffer that very night at twelve o'clock. Being a gentleman of wealth, and having trustworthy and influential friends around him, he at once secured a vessel, and having caused his family to be placed on board, he was himself conveyed in a hogshead to the same retreat and before morning the vessel was not to be seen from the harbor.

So runs the story that has come down to us. This event took place about 1650. Mr. Gerneaux was originally from La Rochelle, France, and is on record at New Rochelle, N. Y., in 1661. He d. about 1723, at the extraordinary age of 103 years. His son, Etienne Geneau, Gaineau, or Stephen Gano, was born about 1640, and was brought to this country by his father when a child. He m. Ann Walton, it is believed, and settled on Staten Island before 1686. Nothing is known regarding his wife's family connections, though there was a Thomas Walton who died on Staten Island in 1689. Stephen and Ann Gano had a daughter, Sara, who was bp. in the Dutch church at New York, 4 Feb. 1663, and who m. Jean Manbrut. Other spellings of this name are Mambru, Mambrut, Manbru, Membru, Membrut, Menbrut, Monbruet, Mombruit, and VanBrute.

After the death of Sarah Manbrut, Cornelius Johnson m. (2) Ann Stout, da. James and Elizabeth (Martin or Tarquin), and gda. of Richard Stout, first permanent settler in the State of New Jersey, 1664. "She lived to a great age, and was the last grandchild of Richard Stout the first that was alive for many years." Cornelius Johnson was very wealthy for those times. He d. Apr. 1770, leaving a large estate. His last wife d. in 1786.

William Coolbaugh early espoused the cause of the colonies upon the outbreak of the American Revolution. A careful inspection of the military records of the State of New Jersey reveals that the war record which has popularly been assigned to this William Coolbaugh, is, in realty, mostly that of his son, William, Jr., (q. v.). But we can identify him as the William Coolbach, who with his sons, served as sergeants, constables, etc., in the State Militia; and we are uncertain as to whether it was he or his son who served as a private in Capt. Peter D. Vroom's company, Second Regiment, Somerset Militia, serving at Millstone, N. J., 26 Mar. to 3 Apr. 1777.

Some historians have stated that William removed from Kingwood to Shawnee, Monroe Co., Pa., where he died, and both he and his wife are buried. But there seems to be no reference to him in the records of the old Dutch church at Shawnee, nor have we come across his name in any old tax lists or other documents of the period. Another account says that he went on from Monroe to Bucks Co., Pa., but we do not have the evidence at hand to support this statement. His children lived in both of these places, so it is probable that references to them have been confused with him. The children of William and Sarah (Johnson) Coolbaugh were:

23. Moses, b. 1752, m. Hannah Schoonmaker.
24. Peter, b. 8 Apr. 1754, in Somerset Co., N. J.; served as a private, 3d Rgt., Hunterdon Militia, under Capts. Joseph Stout, Charles Reading and Cornelius Polhemus. He enlisted at Amwell early in the Revolution, and during the years 1776-8 served on tours of one month each, about one year in all, under the commanders listed above, and Lieut.-Col. William Chamberlain, in the New Jersey troops, and was in the battles of Princeton and Germantown, and marched to the battle of Monmouth, but arrived late. He was allowed pension on his application, executed 18 Aug. 1832, while residing in Amwell Tp. He also served as a wagon-master at Flemington in 1780. He is referred to, 2 Sep. 1778, as a witness to the will of John Miller of Amwell, and subsequently as one of those who made inventory of the estate, 28 Oct. 1778. He m. 13 May 1807 Helena La Tourette. He and his wife sold two pieces of land in Hunterdon Co. in 1810. He was assessed for two houses and lots in Amwell Tp. in 1790. He d. in Hunterdon Co., 18 Oct. 1839, no widow or children surviving. The arrears of pension due him at date of death or were paid to Richard R. Simerson of Hunterdon Co., 4 Dec. 1839, as administrator of his estate.

25. William, b. 1757, m. Susanna Schoonmaker; 2d, Mercy (Buxton) Smith.
26. John, b. 14 Sep. 1760, m. Susannah VanCampen; 2d, Mary (Wills) Field.
27. Cornelius, b. 19 Nov. 1762, m. Sarah Everett.
28. Rachel, b. 1764, m. Christopher Cowell.
29. Benjamin, b. 10 Dec. 1767, m. Jerusha Runyan.
30. Hannah, m. George (?) Tanner; 2d, Silas Barton.
31. Sarah, m. Aaron Morris.
32. Nancy, m. ———— Barton.

MOSES COOLBAUGH (23) is said to have been born in Monroe Co., Pa., but he was probably a native of New Jersey, as will be inferred from his father's sketch. He m. in Monroe Co., about 1775 HANNAH SCHOONMAKER, da. Benjamin and Elizabeth (DePuy) of Shawnee, bp. in the old Dutch church of that place, 5 May 1755. Hendrick Jochemsen Schoonmaker was a native of Hamburg, Germany, came to America as early as 1654 and settled at Kingston, N. Y. His gs., Benjamin, was one of the very first settlers at Shawnee, probably coming there about the same time as his father-in-law, Nicholas DePuy. Benjamin was f. of Hannah. The name became Anglicized to Shoemaker about the time of the Revolution. The DePuys may be scions of a French noble family.

Raphael DuPuy was an officer of high rank to Emperor Conrad in 1033. Nicholas DePuy came in 1662 from Artois, France, and located at Kingston, N. Y. His grandson Nicholas settled at Shawnee as early as 1725, and is popularly conceded to be the first permanent settler in northern Pennsylvania. He was the father of Elizabeth.

Moses Coolbaugh, like other members of the family, was also an ardent patriot of the Revolution, serving several enlistments. His name appears, 1777, among a list of those citizens of Lower Smithfield Tp., north of the Delaware Water Gap, who had taken the oath of allegiance to the Commonwealth. He was Ensign of Co. 5, 5th Battalion, Northampton Co., troops, and was later elected Lieutenant and Captain under Col. Jacob Stroud, the founder of Stroudsburg, and Major John Nelson. "A general return of the officers of Northampton Co., elected spring of 1786, 2d Bat., Capt Moses Coolbaugh." "List of the Return of the Different Election, 23 May 1785, 7th, Capt. Moses Coolbaugh." When he was about to enter the service, he and his brother-in-law, Capt. Ralph Martin, moved to Forty Fort, in the Wyoming Valley, opposite Wilkes-Barre, and then returned leaving their families with their brother-in-law, Lieut. Elijah Shoemaker, who lived near the fort. Before their return the savages and Tories descended on the fortress and the Wyoming Massacre ensued, in which Lieut. Shoemaker was murdered in cold blood. The patriots, with their families, had all taken refuge in the Forty Fort. One of the conditions of their capitulation was that no one should be injured; but in spite of this the Indians coveted the scarlet cloaks that Mrs. Coolbaugh and Mrs. Martin wore. Mrs. Coolbaugh gave hers up. Mrs. Martin refused, but was persuaded by an old squaw who warned her against the consequences of refusal. The Indians tore the cloaks into strips and divided them around and placed them on their legs as ornamental leggings.

Following the conflict Mr. Coolbaugh returned to Shawnee where he took up 400 acres of land, 4 Mar. 1785. The name of Moses Coolbock appears among a list of taxables of Smithfield Tp, 1786. In 1789 he removed to Wysox, Bradford Co., Pa., bringing his family up the Susquehanna from Kingston on a Durham boat. The first year of his residence at Wysox he occupied part of a double house owned by Roswell Franklin, in East Towanda, which was one of the first houses in the township. By deed dated 4 Jan. 1791, he purchased 80 acres, the improvements of Asahel Roberts, just west of the village of Wysox, where his last-surviving grandson, the late Jesse R. Coolbaugh, resided. When he first came, the lowlands below his house were covered with willows, in which were several Indian huts of some of the Delaware tribe, probably; they used to make willow baskets. The house built by Roberts stood on the land subsequently occupied by Darius William's orchard, southwest of the Coolbaugh brick store. A number of old appletrees still mark the spot. Mr. Coolbaugh cleared and improved, and occupied his farm until the time of his death, 22 Feb. 1814, and was laid at rest in the beautiful old cemetery at Wysox, in the rear of the brick church, of which he and his wife were among the founders; his being one of the very oldest marked graves in the cemetery. The following epitaph appears upon his marker:

Hear what the voice from heaven proclaims
For all the pious dead
Sweet is the savor of their names
Soft their sleeping bed.

Mrs. Coolbaugh passed to her reward 13 Nov. 1828, and rests beneath the pines beside her husband. The following verse is graven upon her headstone:

Receive, O earth, my faded form
In thy cold bosom let it lie
Safe let it rest from ev'ry storm,
Soon must it rise no more to die.

Mr. Coolbaugh was one of the most prominent men of his time in upper Luzerne county, which then included Bradford. 5 Mar. 1793 he was commissioned Justice of the Peace by Gov. Mifflin for Tioga township, which then embraced practically the northern half of what is now Bradford county. He was a staunch Democrat, and one of the earliest leaders of that party in the county, and, in 1806 was elected to the State Legislature on that ticket, serving a term of one year. Justus Gaylord, Jr., of Wyalusing was the Federalist candidate. When many of the voters cast their ballots, they failed to specify that their votes were intended for the younger Justus Gaylord, thereby automatically voting for his aged father, who was not a candidate. So when the votes were counted, the following results were obtained: Justus Gaylord, Jr., 333; Justus Gaylord, 38; Total, 371; Moses Coolbaugh, 364. Mr. Gaylord did not contest the election, so Mr. Coolbaugh took the seat. This incident is also of considerable interest in these times in that it brings to our attention the fact that less than 400 votes elected a member of the Legislature, when the election district embraced what is now Bradford County (except the Tioga district), and all of Susquehanna, Wyoming, Luzerne, and Lackawanna counties, including the cities of Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, the third largest populated area in the state.

When Mr. Coolbaugh was a Justice of the Peace, a rather gruesome event transpired. Mathias Fencelor, a hermit, lived in a cabin on the property now owned by Smith A. Forbes, about a mile above Myersburg. He was found dead by two young men who chanced to pass that way. The men went into the hewed log house where they found the old man lifeless and cold on his bed of hemlock boughs and skins. The boys hastened to give the alarm. In the meantime Esquire Coolbaugh prepared to hold an inquest; and while the jury was being summoned, Willard Green of Gillett's Bridge volunteered to stay and guard the dead man. It was late in the evening when the Justice, Constable, William Allen, and jury arrived. The constable, with a lantern, led the way, and, opening the door, a voice called out sepulchrally, "Voicelle vous, Monsieur!" to the consternation and affright of the constable, who beat a precipitate retreat from the door. However, he was reassured as he beheld Mr. Green rise up and laugh, instead of, as he supposed, the defunct. Said someone to Green, "Why, were you not afraid to lie there?" "Afraid! Why should I be afraid of a man dead whom I did not fear while living!"

After Mr. Coolbaugh completed his term in the Legislature, he again served as Magistrate. During his absence William Myer had been appointed to fill the vacancy, but upon his return from Lancaster, where the seat of government was then located, he brought his commission back with him, and for a time there were two justices in Wysox. In 1803 he was appointed one of the Freeholders to Settle (Auditors) of Wysox Tp., and was also one of the trustees appointed to select the location of the seat of government of the new county of Bradford, upon its organization in 1812. It was confidently expected that the broad plains about Wysox would be selected, but they chose a lot in Towanda donated by William Means, Esq. Mr. Coolbaugh served on the first Board of Auditors of Bradford county, 1813, and was incumbent in the office at the time of his death.

While excavating a hole in his garden in which to bury potatoes, Mr. Coolbaugh exhumed the body of an Indian in a sitting posture.

Both he and his wife were charter members of the old Presbyterian church at Wysox, founded in 1791, which is still functioning, being the oldest religious organization of any denomination on the Susquehanna north of Wilkes-Barre. He served the church as deacon and scribe.

WILLIAM COOLBAUGH, JR. (No. 25) is alleged to have been born in Smithfield, Bucks Co., Pa., but the reader is referred to the biography of his father, William, Sr., (No. 3) for remarks upon this matter. Like other members of the family, he, too, was a soldier in the Revolution. Reference has already been made in the biography of William, Sr., to the confusion which has heretofore existed between the military records of father and son. The following is the service of William Coolbaugh, who in 1780 was 23 years of age; served under Capt. Samuel Growendyck, 3d Regiment, Hunterdon Militia, Jan. 20-28, 1777; private under Capt. Daniel Bray from Kingwood; private Capt. Cornelius Johnson. This is the regiment which is said to have scoured the banks of the Delaware from Easton down to find boats to convey Washington and his men across the river from New Hope, to Coryell's Ferry, (Lambertville), the night he fell on the Hessians at Trenton. Mr. Coolbaugh is described as being six feet, two inches tall, blond, blue eyes. His is spoken of as Lieut. William Coolbaugh in the records of the old church at Wysox. He m. SUSANNAH SCHOONMAKER, da. Benjamin and Elizabeth (DePuy), sister of his brother Moses' wife, to whose biography the reader is referred for brief notes concerning her antecedents. She was bp. in the old Dutch church at Shawnee, 1 Dec. 1763.

William Coolbaugh probably came from Shawnee to Wysox with his brother Moses in 1789. He was the first settler at Myersburg, about 1806, later selling his property to Amos Mix about 1814, and removed to Barrington Tp., Yates Co., N. Y.

While at Wysox, Mr. Coolbaugh, like his brother Moses, took a prominent part in community affairs. Both he and his wife were charter members of the old Presbyterian church of that place, 1791. In 1795 four ruling elders were chosen by the church, of whom he was one. He was constable of Wysox Tp., in 1799. From 1798-1802 he was supervisor; in 1803 was one of the overseers of the poor, and from 1796-99 was one of the fence viewers. 13 Apr. 1792, he was elected Ensign, 2d Company, 2d Battalion, Luzerne Co., Militia.

For a second wife he m. MERCY BUXTON, widow of JONAS SMITH of North Towanda. Mr. Smith had come from Connecticut to North Towanda in 1785, taking up 200 acres of land bounded by the Susquehanna and Sugar Creek. Mr. Smith was b. in 1737 and d. about 1800, and is believed to have been buried on the old Bishop Horton farm in North Towanda. Mercy Buxton was b. at Stamford, Conn., 21 Oct. 1744, eldest da. Charles and Mercy (Lounsbury), and desc. of Clement Buxton, an early settler at Stamford. She d. 9 Aug. 1822, and is buried at Hornbrook, Pa.

46. Cornelius: referred to in the Yates County records. He was prob. s. or gs. of William, though it is possible that Cornelius of Wysox (No. 39) owned property in Yates county.

JUDGE JOHN COOLBAUGH (No. 26) was born at Kingwood, N. J. On his sixteenth birthday, 14 Sep. 1776, he enlisted four months in Capt. Francis Lock's Co., Lieut. James Brink, Ensign Daniel Palmer, and the famous Col. Frederick Frelinghuysen commanding. He was discharged "on the night of the 26th of December, 1776, after the capture of the Hessions at Trenton." In April 1777 he served two months under Capt. Cornelius Carhart, Lieut. Daniel Bray, Ensign William Harrington, and Col. Joseph Beavers commanding. And in June 1777 he enlisted for four months in Capt. Francis Lock's Co., Col. Frelinghuysen's Regiment. In the latter part of 1777 the British came over from Staten Island and had an engagement at De Hart's Lane, near Elizabeth Point, where Capt. Lock was killed. Mr. Coolbaugh was then transferred to Capt. Johnson's Co., and was in an engagement at Newark. He served six months in Capt. Jacob Carhart's Co., Col. Bunnell's Regiment, was in the battle of Monmouth in Capt. Bray's Co., Joseph Beaver's Regiment; and in June 1778 served one month in Capt. Bray's Co., Lieut. Harrington, Ensign Condrick and Col. Bunnell commanding.

In 1786 he moved to Coryell's Ferry, New Hope, Pa., and about two years later he migrated to Monroe Co., Pa. 14 Sep. 1788, on his 28th birth anniversary, he was united in wedlock to SUSANNAH VanCAMPEN, at Wallpack, N. J., by Rev. Elias VanBenschoten of the old Dutch church of that place. She b. 24 Aug. 1758, bp. 1759 in the Wallpack church, da. John, Esq., and Sarah (DePuy) of Shawnee, and grandda. Col. Abraham VanCampen who settled in Warren Co., N. J., 1732. His father, John Aerenson van Kampen, came to New Amsterdam in 1658 and settled in Kingston, N. Y. A notice of the Depuy family appears in the biography of Moses Coolbaugh (No. 23).

After his marriage Mr. Coolbaugh purchased a large tract of land, principally in Middle Smithfield Tp., lying along the Delaware and Marshalls Creek, in the improvement of which he was engaged the remainder of his life. His home became known as Coolbaugh, Pa., and so continues unto this day. Coolbaugh Tp., in northwestern Monroe Co., was named in honor of the Judge, but he never lived there.

Mr. Coolbaugh's first residence was a log house on the site subsequently occupied by George Bush's barn. In 1792 he erected the comfortable and commodious stone mansion, containing about twenty rooms, still standing, and which became the old homestead of this branch of the family. It has been out of the possession of descendants for quite a number of years. After Mr. Coolbaugh's death, it was occupied by his son, Judge Moses W. Coolbaugh, and later still by the latter's son, Hon. M. Frank Coolbaugh. Many prominent men were entertained here throughout the generations as guests beneath its hospitable roof.

Judge Coolbaugh was one of the most prominent and influential of the early settlers, and upon the erection of Wayne county out of Northampton in 1798, it was understood that Wayne was to send one representative to the State Legislature. John Coolbaugh was the first man to serve in that capacity. He was reelected in 1799, 1800, 1803 and 1806. The latter year his brother Moses of Wysox represented Luzerne county, so the two brothers were there at the same time. The offices of Prothonotary, Clerk of the Courts, Recorder of Deeds and Register of Wills were for some years part of the Governor's patronage, and it frequently happened that the same man was appointed to fill all these offices. Gov. Snyder appointed Mr. Coolbaugh to fill all of them for Wayne county for the year 1809. When Pike county was set off from Wayne in 1814, Mr. Coolbaugh was appointed, 14 Oct. 1814, an Associate Judge of the new county, serving on the bench with Judge Daniel W. Dingman of Dingman's Ferry, until Monroe county was set off in 1836, a period of 22 years. Judges Coolbaugh and Dingman were both large, stoutly-built men, weighing over 200 pounds. Coolbaugh was commonly addressed by Dingman, both in private and official capacity by the slightly undignified name of "Bub". In going to and returning from Court, at the old county-seat at Bethany, he rode on horseback, and frequently rode 50 miles without seeing a house. His landed property stretched for several miles along the old stage road, and at his death, in 1842, at the venerable age of 82, he left his children good farms around him, and passed away as the patriarchs of old, surrounded by a large family, and in the possession of a large estate, which he had accumulated throughout a long, active and busy life. He formerly owned the land on which the village of Bushkill now stands. He was a man of good judgment and superior executive ability, kind and considerate of his neighbors, whom he often assisted in their troubles; of pious habits and inclinations, and closely identified with the material development of this section. He and his sons were the virtual founders of the Presbyterian church at Coolbaugh, and the early meetings, from 1825, when the first ministers commenced their occasional visits to the community, till the erection of the church there in 1833, services were conducted either in his barn or in his kitchen. He had formerly been an officer in the old Dutch church at Shawnee. His door was always open to the stranger, and his hospitable home became a sort of public-house, at which all worthy people might stop, without money and without price.

Mr. Coolbaugh early took a prominent part in the Masonic Fraternity. He founded Zebulon Lodge, No. 179, at Coolbaugh in 1821, which was the first of its kind between Easton and Milford, and was its first Worshipful Master. The lodge met in the upper part of his house.

He gave the land for the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian church and cemetery, and some of the lumber for the church building, which was sawed at the Coolbaugh mill in the wilderness seven miles from the Coolbaugh settlement. He was also the first postmaster at Middle Smithfield, and brought the mail from Easton on horseback. The postoffice has ever since been in the hands of his descendants, the present postmistress being his great-granddaughter, Mrs. Myra VanAllen Ammerman. He had a store at Shawnee in 1797 and his place of business was the center of a large patronage. A couple of his old account books were in the possession of his last-surviving granddaughter, Mrs. Emma VanAllen of Coolbaugh, and they excite much interest among those of the present generation who examine them.

In 1834 the Judge was granted a pension of $43.33 per annum for his services in the Revolution. He was also the First Major of the 5th Regiment, Northampton Militia, 1790-1800. His first wife, Susannah VanCampen, d. 31 Jan. 1829, and was buried in the Coolbaugh cemetery. He m. (2) 4 Feb. 1830, at the First Presbyterian church, Easton, by Rev. J. Gray, to MRS. MARY (WILLS) FIELD, and d. 25 Sep. 1842, and was also laid at rest in the Coolbaugh cemetery. His 2d wife was b. 1777, da. Col. William and ———— (Kinney) Wills, who came to New York from Tyron Co., England in 1776 and on to Marshalls creek in 1780. She was the widow of ASA FIELD of Delaware Water Gap, and mother of Mrs. Cornelius Coolbaugh, Jr. She survived the Judge a number of years and was still alive in 1854. For some time she lived with her daughter, Margaret Coolbaugh in Stroudsburg, and also spent some time with her stepchildren. Luke W. Brodhead, writing of his early recollections of Stroudsburg, 1840, speaks of her as "The dear, old lady, known by everybody as 'Aunt Polly'; she was the widow of Judge John Coolbaugh". And Mrs. Emma VanAllen, who was the last-surviving grand-child of the Judge, speaking of her early childhood memories relates that her step-grandmother often spent some time at the home of her father, and adds: "I remember so well. She always had a cane beside her chair, and as our family were usually lively, so perhaps we used to annoy her, and she would threaten with her cane".

Judge Coolbaugh was the head of a family who have filled an important place in the political, social and religious life of Monroe and Pike counties, and gained for themselves an enviable prestige. His name is still spoken with the greatest veneration by his descendants.

CAPT. CORNELIUS COOLBAUGH (No. 27) m. Sarah Everett of New Hope, Bucks Co., Pa., b. 30 Apr. 1762. Family tradition states that Cornelius was one of the sons who served with their father in the Revolution. Following this conflict, he, too, took up his residence in Monroe Co., Pa., where he owned land, 1786-1817. In 1814 there was formed a company of militia in Smithfield Tp., for service in the war of 1812. Capt. George Detrick had command, while Mr. Coolbaugh was promoted to 2d Lieutenant, 10 Oct. 1814. On their way to rendezvous at Marcus Hook, the party passed through Philadelphia and were transported from there to their destination on Durham boats. During their stay at Philadelphia they were complimented on their fine appearance, nearly all the men being above the average size. Capt. Detrick was a man above the ordinary size, six feet four inches in height, with a proportionately large frame, very erect, and altogether a man of uncommonly fine presence. While he was at Philadelphia he was especially noticed and his martial bearing commented upon. He astonished the young natives, however, and suffered considerable annoyance by the crowd of boys on every side shouting, "Goliath has broken out of the waxworks!" Lieut. Coolbaugh, who was afterwards promoted to the captaincy, is said to have been a good officer.

There is in existence an old map of New Hope as it appeared in 1798.

The various buildings are all assigned a number; we read: "33, Coolbaugh's house". It is located on the north-east corner of the intersection of the road to Mitchell's Ferry, four miles distant, with the road leading directly to Coryell's Ferry, across the Delaware from New Hope. In a list of the families in New Hope in 1798 was "Coolbaugh". The same authority adds: "The Murray dwelling was built in 1808 by one Coolbaugh". Cornelius Coolbaugh operated a hotel at New Hope about 1800, so it is likely that the above references are to him, though his brother John was also in the vicinity at the same time. The census shows him to have been a resident of Bucks county in 1790.

Mr. Coolbaugh was a charter member of Zebulon Lodge, No. 79, F. & A. M., at Coolbaugh and was its first Junior Warden. Mr. Coolbaugh was buried at Smithfield, Monroe county.

53. Cornelius, b. 27 Apr. 1789, m. Margaret Field.

57. John.

BENJAMIN COOLBAUGH (No. 29) is said to have been born at Smithfield. He was a member of the Kingwood Militia in 1792. He m. JERUSHA RUNYAN, da. Absalom of Kingwood, and prob. desc. of Vincent Rongion, a Huguenot, who came to America in 1665 and settled at Piscataway, N. J., before 1671. Mr. Coolbaugh came to Macedonia, Pa., soon after 1800, and settled at the four corners. Some of the land is still owned by his descendants, the Dailys and Bennetts. Here he d. 13 Feb. 1815 and is buried at Wysox. His widow m. (2) 1817, WILLARD GREEN of Allis Hollow, Rome, Pa., who had served as a private in Capt. John Franklin's Independent Co., Wyoming Valley, 1780. He was a taxable at Wilkes-Barre in 1799, and came to Orwell Tp., about 1804. In 1810 he purchased a tract of land on Johnson creek, which he subsequently sold to John Horton. Jerusha d. 27 Oct. 1855, and was buried at Wysox, beside her former husband. B. Frank Bennett, one of her two last-surviving grandchildren, and who spent his summers in a cabin on a portion of the old homestead, related that he could just remember his grandmother. He recollected filling her old-fashioned clay pipe for her.

71. Ellen, b. 15 Dec. 1811, m. Joseph Sill.

DANIEL COOLBAUGH (No 36) was bp. 13 May 1787 in the old Dutch church at Shawnee. He occupied the homestead at Wysox and built the brick residence owned by his son, the late Jesse R. Coolbaugh, in 1828-9. Here he kept hotel and was postmaster for a while. He also operated a distillery, but in the early 40's he was persuaded by an itinerant temperance lecturer to discontinue the manufacture and sale of spirits. Going to his still-house, he knocked in the heads of all casks containing liquor, which he spilled on the ground. Ever after he was a faithful champion of the temperance cause. On his farm brick were made for his residence and for the Wysox church. He was a faithful attendant at church, and one of the most active members and elders, and of all the meetings of the session of record, between 1839 and 1860, there is but one meeting where his name is not among those in attendance. He was also one of the leaders of the Abolitionist party of his day.

His first wife was ANNA VAUGHAN, da. Richard and Ellen (Race) of Rummerfield. She b. 1788, and d. 17 Nov. 1843, without issue. For his 2d wife he m. LUCY KEEP (ROGERS) STILES, b. 1803, da. Nathaniel and Phoebe (Keep), Rogers, who came from New Hartford, Conn., and wid. of DR. OLIVER STILES of Whitneys Point, N. Y. She d. 17 Jan. 1892. Mr. Coolbaugh d. 5 Mar. 1860, and all rest in the Wysox cemetery.

73. Jesse Rogers, b. 6 Nov. 1852, m. Ada Flavilla Cannon.

SAMUEL COOLBAUGH (No 37) was born at Wysox. He m. 24 Dec. 1815 NANCY OGDEN, da. John of Wyalusing. Her mother was da. Thomas and Elizabeth (Gaylord) Wigton of Wyalusing. She b. 25 Jan. 1798. The Ogdens were a very ancient English family, the common ancestor of the various families in America being Robert Ogden of Nutley, Hampshire, England, 1453. Thomas Wigton is said to have been a native of Ireland, and to have come to Wyalusing about the time of the Revolution. He was prob. scion of a Bucks Co., Pa., family of the name. The Gaylord ancestors fled from France to England during the Huguenot persecutions. Dea. William Gaylord came form England to Dorchester, Mass., in 1630, from whom descended Justus, Sr , f. of Elizabeth, and one of the earliest Connecticut colonists in Wyoming Valley, subsequently settling at Wyalusing.

Samuel Coolbaugh located on the farm now owned by his granddaughter, Mrs. O. W. Hoaglin, about a mile east of Wysox, and engaged extensively in lumbering, rafting his product in large quantities down the Susquehanna. He was a man of much energy and enterprise, operating two sawmills and a gristmill on Wysox creek, merchandising, farming and rafting at the same time. He accumulated a fine fortune. His store was located on what is commonly called the "duck pond" or Coolbaugh's corners. A frequent visitor at his place was a lady from the hill named Lucy. She would frequently request to see large assortments of merchandise, and, after putting Mr. Coolbaugh to a great deal of trouble, would decide that she did not want anything that day. On one occasion, his patience sorely tried, Mr. Coolbaugh expostulated, "You're the tightest woman I ever saw!" To which she rejoined, "They all call me Luce on the hill!"

Mr. Coolbaugh d. 19 Nov. 1874, and his widow then made her home with her son Eustis, where she d. 8 May 1884, and both are buried in the Wysox cemetery. Mr. Coolbaugh served one term as Justice of the Peace of Wysox Tp., 1840. The family were faithful members of the Wysox church, Mr. Coolbaugh serving many years as treasurer of the board. Mrs. Coolbaugh had been reared a Methodist.

CORNELIUS COOLBAUGH (No 39) was bp. at Wysox 13 Jan. 1793. He occupied a portion of the homestead. He m. (1) 2 Mar. 1814 JEMIMA WILCOX, youngest da. Sheffield, Sr., and Eunice (Ross) of New Albany, Pa., b. 8 Mar. 1793, prob. in Rhode Island, from whence her father removed to Cooperstown, N. Y., where he remained a short time, and then drifted down the Susquehanna, finding his way into Monroe Tp. in 1798. He lived on the west side of Towanda creek, about three-quarters of a mile below the bridge. While residing here he and his sons went up South Branch into Albany tp., and picked out locations. Between April 1800 and the spring of 1801 they began the erection of a log house on their tract, and in the autumn of 1803 Sheffield, Jr., moved to their forest home (which had neither doors nor windows), on an ox sled. His father came the following spring. When the Wilcoxes went to Albany they were compelled to cross the creek eleven times in reaching their new home. At this time there was but one house between Fowlers in Monroe and the spot where they had settled, being John D. Saunders, who lived in the old Ridgway place at South Branch. Ephraim Ladd lived a couple of miles further up the creek at Laddsburg, but the country was a wild and dreary prospect, inhabited only by savage animals. The woods were full of deer, and brook trout were found in myriads in the streams. Sheffield, Sr., built his cabin on a little plateau on the Rhodes place. His house had all the novelties of pioneer style. It was one story, floored with split plank—one end being occupied by the huge fireplace. Fuel, to the size of small saw-logs was used and frequently drawn into the house by a horse. Such was the childhood home of Jemima Wilcox Coolbaugh. She d. 13 Jan. 1822, and Mr. Coolbaugh m. (2) 16 June 1822 ANNA LARISON, eldest da. Theodorus, Esq., and Elizabeth (Updyke) of Jackson, Tioga Co., Pa., b. 31 Oct. 1803, d. 28 Apr. 1835. She was desc. of John Larason, a Danish nobleman, compelled to flee and lose his estates by conspiracy on account of taxes, in 1660. He fled to Scotland, and, hearing that a price was set on his head, he came to America and purchased 1700 acres near Brooklyn, N. Y. The Updyke, Opdyck family in this country was founded by Louris Jansen Opdyck who came from Holland to New Amsterdam before 1653. His son Johannes settled at Maidenhead, Hunterdon Co., N. J., in 1697. Jacob, g-gs. of Johannes, removed from Montgomery, Somerset Co., N. J., to Enfield, Tompkins Co., N. Y., in 1802. He was f. of Elizabeth. Mrs. Coolbaugh is remembered as having been a very beautiful woman. Mr. Coolbaugh m. (3) 4 May 1836, HANNAH S. (MILLS) BINGHAM of North Towanda, b. 15 Feb. 1805 in eastern New York State, near the Delaware, da. Edward and Lusina (Stewart) Mills, who came to Bradford county in 1808 and settled in North Towanda. Her first husband, GEORGE K. BINGHAM, was drowned, 1831, in running a raft over Shamokin dam in the Susquehanna. Mr. Coolbaugh d. 20 Aug. 1860, and both he and his first and second wives are buried in the family plot, Wysox cemetery. His third wife survived him many years, spending her last days at Towanda, where she d. 9 Sep. 1899, the oldest woman in Towanda. Her memory and sight remained unimpaired until the very last. She got around without a cane, worked every day, and was a faithful Christian, every Sunday finding her a close listener at services at the M. E. church in Towanda, which she attended while residing there during her last years. At 92 she completed making 32 quilts for her own grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and step-grandchildren. She is buried in Riverside cemetery in Towanda. For a number of years Mr. Coolbaugh was an elder in the Presbyterian church of Wysox. No issue by 3d marriage.

PETER COOLBAUGH (No. 41) has been placed as a son of William, Jr. He was not a son of William, Sr., if his age is correctly given on his marker. Peter the Revolutionary soldier was more nearly the age of the other children of William, Sr., and, as he seems to have followed the same train of migration as the rest of the family, his relationship to them is evident. He was one of the "sons" who served with their father in the Revolution. Peter the younger came to Bradford county along with other members of the family. Hence his connection therewith. He was about the right age to have been a son of William, Jr. He named a daughter Susannah and a son Benjamin; the former for his mother, Susannah Shoemaker, and the latter for his grandfather, Benjamin Shoemaker. Peter lived at Wysox and Macedonia a number of years. In 1913-4 he was assessed in Wysox Tp.; in 1816, Towanda Tp., a note in the old tax roll reading, "The land purchased of Christopher Cowell." He became a member of the Wysox church in 1812. In 1818 the assessment roll says: "House and land transferred to Coonrad Cowell". This was the year he moved to Lockville, Wyoming Co., Pa., where he built a log cabin and cleared a farm on what has ever since been known as Coolbaugh Hill. Here he d. 13 Aug. 1840. His wife, ELEANOR JACOBS, was b. 25 Mar. 1776, d. 25 Aug. 1855, and both rest in Lockville cemetery. Like other members of the family, Mr. Coolbaugh was a Democrat in politics.

108. Susannah VanCampen, b. 19 May 1819, m. Rev. Andrew Tully.

JOHN VanCAMPEN COOLBAUGH (No 51) was bp. in the old Shawnee Dutch church 21 Oct. 1799. He inherited many characteristics of his father. He was one of the first, and for many years, an elder in the Presbyterian church at Coolbaugh, and one of the successful and prosperous farmers of his township. He erected a homestead property of his own, which was subsequently occupied by his son, Andrew J., near the old family mansion, and his house was always open to his friends and acquaintances. He avoided public office and devoted his chief energies to the promotion of the welfare of the church and congregation of which he was a member. The greater part of his life he was an adherent of the Democratic party, but upon the formation of the Republican party, he and his sons espoused the principles for which it stood. He was also Sunday School superintendent and leader of the choir many years. He was strictly temperate in all his habits, and reared his children in similar virtues. None of his sons ever touched liquor, and with the exception of Andrew J., who indulged in an occasional cigar, none used tobacco. Mr. Coolbaugh m. 9 June 1818, by Rev. Hoffedits to MARY EILENBERGER, da. Andrew and Elizabeth (Frutchey) of Smithfield, b. 16 Dec. 1801, d. 6 Dec. 1863. Her parents, natives of Northampton Co., removed to Smithfield Tp., at an early day. Mr. Coolbaugh d. 22 July 1874, and both rest in the Coolbaugh cemetery. He was a member of Zebulon Lodge, No. 179, F. & A. M., at Coolbaugh.

109. Elizabeth Eilenberger, b. 26 May 1819, m. Charles Ridgway Peters.
110. Andrew Jackson, b. 24 May 1821, lived at Willow Grove, the homestead, where he d. unm. in 1898. He was admitted to the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian church in 1843, and served as school director of the township, 1853, and as township clerk in 1850 and '51, and again in 1884.
111. Abram VanCampen, b. 8 Oct. 1823, m. Jane Wallace Freese.

119. James Clarence, b. 17 Feb. 1848, d. unm. 11 Aug. 1885 on the old homestead.

JUDGE MOSES WILLS COOLBAUGH (No. 52), like other members of the family, was bp. in the old Dutch church at Shawnee, 21 Oct. 1799. He was b. on the old Coolbaugh homestead where he grew to maturity, receiving his education in the public schools of the locality. He was m. 11 July 1820 by Rev. James G. Force to MARY NYCE, da. John and Eleanor (Westbrook), and desc. of Hans de Neus or Nuyse, who came from Crefeld, Germany, in 1683, settling at Germantown, Pa. His grandson, William Nyce, settled at Bushkill after the close of the Revolution. Mr. Coolbaugh brought his wife to the old homestead, where he carried on general agricultural pursuits, and in addition engaged to some extent in lumbering, and though he followed in his father's footsteps as a leader in the public life of the community, his greatest interest was always centered in his home life and private business affairs. He made his home on the farm, but he was nevertheless a prominent factor in the development of the city of Stroudsburg, especially in a business way, and he was active and influential in every project for the general welfare and advancement of the entire county for many years. Politically he was one of the wheel-horses of the old Jacksonian Democratic party in this section, in whose interest he was a tireless worker, and his name and fame spread far beyond the boundaries of his native county. He was one of the five who were appointed trustees to receive donations of real estate and money toward defraying the expenses of the lands and public buildings for the use of Monroe county, and select a site for the seat of the new county, which was erected by the act of the Legislature, 1 Apr. 1835. Several offers were made then, but Stroudsburg was considered the most favorable location, and accordingly selected, the land having been given to the county by Stroud J. Hollinshead. Mr. Coolbaugh also served several terms in the Pennsylvania Legislature as a member from Monroe and Northampton counties, being first honored with election to that position in 1838. He was subsequently appointed by Gov. Shunk to fill a vacancy as Associate Judge, and was later elected to the same incumbency, which he held with ability for a number of years, displaying rare good judgment in the discharge of the duties of this office, and attaining a high standing among the foremost men in public life in this part of the state. He was equally active in religious affairs, being a zealous worker in the Presbyterian church, in which he held membership, and toward whose support he was a liberal contributor. He served as a member of the Middle Smithfield school board in 1849, and was also a member of Zebulon Lodge, No. 179, F. & A. M. at Coolbaugh. He was one of the organizers of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of Monroe Co. He d. 5 Feb. 1866; and his wife, b. 14 Aug. 1799, d. 13 Aug. 1867, and both rest in the cemetery at Coolbaugh.

ABRAM VanCAMPEN COOLBAUGH (No. 111) was born on the original family homestead, and passed his boyhood on his father's farm, attending the neighborhood schools in the primitive log schoolhouses of the day, and subsequently engaged in teaching for a few years. After reaching manhood he remained with his father until 1856, when, in December of that year he m. JANE WALLACE FREESE, da. Abraham and Elizabeth (Dildine) of Milford, and established himself upon a farm of his father's, near the Presbyterian church at Coolbaugh, which was subsequently occupied by his brother-in-law, Rev. Charles E. VanAllen. There he resided for eighteen years, engaged in farming, lumbering and surveying, which latter occupation he steadily followed since 1846. He surveyed extensively in Pike, Monroe, Wayne, and Bucks Cos., Pa., and Warren Co., N. J., and at one time owned over 4,000 acres in Monroe and Pike Cos. He owned and operated a sawmill on the Big Bushkill in Pike Co. and farms in Porter Tp., that Co., and in Middle Smithfield, Price and Barrett Tps., Monroe Co. In Apr. 1876 he removed to Stroudsburg, where he spent the remainder of his life. He erected a great many sawmills, school houses and private residences, and did much toward the material development of the county. He never aspired to public office, but was always a regular attendant at the Presbyterian church and a liberal supporter of that and other worthy institutions. He was elected a member of the Middle Smithfield school board in 1858, and to the City Council of Stroudsburg in 1883. He was a man of character, having never used tobacco or liquor in his life, nor took a dose of medicine. He enjoyed the delights of hunting since boyhood, and brought down many a fat buck or doe with his unerring aim. In this connection it might be mentioned that he became a successful taxidermist, having acquired the art for the purpose of preserving some of the choice specimens he secured. MOSES WILLS COOLBAUGH (No. 117) m. 1 Jan. 1866 HARRIET ELIZABETH STARK of Wyoming, Pa., b. 17 Oct. 1844, d. 14 Oct. 1901 at Lake Carey and was buried in Hollenback cemetery, Wilkes-Barre. She was da. John Michael and Sarah (Davidson), and desc. of Aaron Stark of Hartford, Conn., 1639, and of Christopher Stark, a native of Groton, Conn., who moved first to Dutchess Co., N. Y., from whence he came to the Wyoming Valley in 1772. Mr. Coolbaugh was a native of Coolbaugh, Pa. His early years were spent at Willow Glenn where he received his education in the public schools. While still very young he began work on his father's farm, and followed the occupation of a farmer about 30 years. He then entered the employ of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., at Plains, Pa., acting as superintendent for a period of eight years. At the end of this time he established himself in business in Pittston, where he opened a large grocery store, which he carried on with great success for many years. Having amassed a large fortune by his various business undertakings, he retired to private life. Part of his time was spent at Pittston, and part at Lake Carey, where he built a beautiful and commodious cottage on the shores of the lake, which he called Nimrod. The next one he built was Buena Vista. He was an enthusiastic sportsman and spent a large part of his time in fishing and hunting expeditions. In 1903 he made a trip to California where he spent more than three months in his favorite pastimes. He was president of the Stark Land Co. of Moosic, a company named after its organizer, John M. Stark, father-in-law of Mr. Coolbaugh. Mr. Coolbaugh's political affiliations were Republican, and though he was repeatedly offered the Mayoralty of Pittston, did not care to hold political office. His religious belief was that of the Presbyterian church. He d. 24 Dec. 1912. He is remembered as a true gentleman, and at the time of his death the Pittston papers spoke of him as the grand old man of that place.

279b. John Stark, b. 27 Mar. 1869, d. 20 Dec. 1927; m. 16 Sep. 1891 Anna Elizabeth Young, who survives him. He was a member of Trinity Episcopal church, West Pittston, and Junior Warden and treasurer of the parish; was also a member of the Boy Scout Council and president of the Lake Carey Chapel Assn., his summer home. No issue.

WILLIAM FINLEY COOLBAUGH (No. 120) was b. on the old home farm at Coolbaugh. He received his early education in the common schools of the neighborhood, finishing with an academic course at Philadelphia, in which city he remained for some time, employed as a clerk in a store. Later he took charge of a store at Burlington, Iowa, which, after managing for a few years, he purchased in partnership with John H. Gear (who subsequently served as Governor of Iowa and U. S. Senator from that State), and as a member of the firm of Coolbaugh & Brooks, he was one of the organizers of the Burlington bank, a private concern. From Iowa he removed to Chicago about 1860, where he passed the remainder of his life, permanently identified with the business interests of that city as one of the organizers and president of the Union National Bank. AMZI FULLER COOLBAUGH (No. 123) was born and reared in Smithfield Tp., receiving a district school education. In early manhood he made his home in New Jersey, where he engaged successfully in agricultural pursuits. After remaining here six years he removed to Stroud Tp, continuing general farming there, and later he built a handsome and commodious home in Stroudsburg, where he remained until the time of his death, 28 Feb. 1896. He was a Democrat in politics, but did not aspire to political honors. While living in Stroud Tp., he served as school director, 1866-9, and assessor for 1869. As a citizen he was held in highest esteem, and for years he was one of the leaders of the Presbyterian church of Stroudsburg. He was also president and director of the East Stroudsburg Glass Co. 8 Dec. 1859 he was united in marriage with SARA J. DILDINE, da. Harmond and Sarah D. (Ayers), at Mt. Bethel, Northampton Co., b. 20 May 1836, d. 19 Dec. 1899. She was a lady of culture and refinement, and was of a most retiring disposition. Her early life was spent chiefly at Mt. HON. MOSES FRANK COOLBAUGH (No. 133) received his education in the common schools at Coolbaugh. He inherited the Democratic tendencies of his fathers, and was foremost among the leaders of his party in this section, and became well known in political circles throughout the state. He began his public service in early manhood, when he filled the office of Auditor of Monroe county, and he served frequently as delegate to county and state conventions up to 1880, when he was first honored by election to the Pennsylvania Legislature. He was reelected in 1882. Mr. Coolbaugh represented part of the district from which his father and grandfather had served, and he ably sustained the reputation established by them for efficient and faithful service. He acted on a number of important committees, was chairman of the committee on Appropriations and Agriculture, and one of the joint committee that attended the hundredth anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, the members of this committee being for the most part descendants of Revolutionary soldiers. After his return from the Legislature, Mr. Coolbaugh withdrew to some extent from the political arena, though he always continued to take a warm interest in the affairs of his locality. He was elected school director of Middle Smithfield Tp., in 1878. He was a true gentleman of the highest moral character.

Though active in politics, Mr. Coolbaugh was by occupation always a farmer. He spent all his life, until 1891, on the ancestral homestead. That year he removed to Stroudsburg, where he remained seven years, again returning to the old home. In 1908 he returned to Stroudsburg, where he spent the rest of his life. 28 Nov. 1872 he m. JOHNSON RINALDO COOLBAUGH (No. 151) was a native of Bradford county, and spent the first sixteen years of his life on his father's farm. Early in life he manifested a love for trade, and went to Pittston where he was employed as clerk for a period of two years. He then came to Wilkes-Barre and took a position with Andrew Kessler, in whose employ he remained two years. About this time Horace Greely was advising young men to "go west". Acting on this advice, in the fall of 1856, our subject went to Beloit, Wis., where he remained until Jan., 1860, occupying responsible positions with the leading mercantile houses. He returned to Wilkes-Barre, which at that time was a boro of about 4,000 inhabitants, bounded by North, South and Canal Sts., and the Susquehanna. There were but four leading merchants in the place. Mr. Coolbaugh saw an opening for a cash business and opened the first exclusive dry goods store. He had but little capital, but with true western push and enterprise he determined by honesty and hard work to make the venture successful. Continuing until the fall of 1861, and being desirous of extending the business, he associated with himself D. H. Frantz and moved to a new site. The war being now on, prices advanced, and the business proved a grand success theirs becoming the leading dry goods house. About 1868 Mr. Frantz retired and Mr. Coolbaugh continued until 1872, when he sold out. Together with his cousin, Wm. M. Bennett, he established a shoe house. Other interests occupying his attention, he sold his interest in the shoe business in 1880. In 1872 he entered the firm of Miller, Bertels & Coolbaugh, real estate dealers. For eleven years he assisted Mr. Miller, who was tax receiver, and at the same time dealt in real estate, opening many new streets in Wilkes-Barre, among which are Franklin from Academy street down; Sullivan St.; Dana Place; Barney and Church Sts. In 1878 he succeeded to the business of Miller, Bertels & Coolbaugh, and continued until 1894, at which time Charles W. Dana was taken into the firm, and in 1902 Harold G. Frantz also became a partner. Mr. Coolbaugh retired from active business in 1905.

His political opinions allied him with the Democratic party. He never sought nor held office except one term of three years as Councilman-at-large. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. from young manhood, and was a member of the Wyoming Historical & Geological Society. He was strong in his friendships and loyal to his friends. He is what is called a self-made man, and his was a very busy life of reasonable success and good citizenship. He belonged to the Presbyterian church the greater part of his life, and his wife was also a member. He was the only president of the Coolbaugh family reunion, and in 1913 was elected to that incumbency for life, but the meeting in 1915 was the only one ever held after that.

He m. 5 Mar. 1857 SUSAN HUNTINGTON DANA, da. Francis and Sophia (Whitcomb), b. Wilkes-Barre, 24 Apr. 1838, d. 30 Dec. 1904. Richard Dana, a native of France, came to Cambridge, Mass., in 1630. Anderson Dana, from Ashford, Conn. settled in the Wyoming Valley in 1772.

MAJ. WILLIAM OAKLEY COOLBAUGH (No. 154) was a native of Durell. His early years were spent in Bradford county, where he attended the public schools. He offered himself for enlistment in the Civil war, at Macedonia, when he was only twelve, but because of his extreme youth was rejected. When sixteen, he came to Wilkes-Barre to live with his brother Johnson R. Coolbaugh, and received tuition at the academy of Squire Parsons, where he remained for one year. At the end of this time, 1865, he entered the dry goods store of Coolbaugh & Frantz (his brother's store), as clerk, and held a position there until 1871 when the store was closed out. He then looked after his brother Johnson's interest in a newly-opened shoe store (J. R. Coolbaugh & Co.). Later this store was sold to Bennett & Walter, with which firm Major Coolbaugh remained several years. He next accepted a position as traveling salesman for Field, Thayer & Co. (shoes), of Boston. He held this position for a period of five years, resigning it to accept a similar one with A. W. Clapp & Co., of Boston, where he remained one year. He then entered into business relations with the firm of S. H. Powers, jobbers in boots and shoes, New York City, serving them in a similar capacity for four years, when Mr. Powers retired from business. Mr. Coolbaugh then went with James C. Wiley, manufacturer of cigars, Lancaster, Pa., until the latter's death. He then entered the employ of L. H. Foy & Co., in the same line and continued with them until they went out of business in 1904. Then for some time he was with the contract department of the People's Telephone Co. of Wilkes-Barre. Mr. Coolbaugh is now living in retirement at a very advanced age, with his daughter, Mrs. Phillips, in Wilkes-Barre.

Major Coolbaugh has a long and honorable record with the National Guards of Pennsylvania. He entered as a private in Co. I, 9th Rgt., in 1880. The same year he was appointed quarter-master sergeant on the non-commissioned staff of Col. G. Murray Reynolds in 1884; commissioned regimental quarter-master with rank of First Lieutenant on Col. Reynold's staff by Gov. Pattison. (He also served in the same capacity under Col. J. M. Keck). In 1887 he was commissioned aide-de-camp with rank of Captain, on the staff of Gen. J. P. S. Gobin, commander of the 3d Brigade,

N. G. Pa., by Gov. Beaver; in 1891 commissioned commissary of subsistence of the 3d Brigade, with rank of Major, by Gov. Pattison. Maj. Coolbaugh was with the regiment at Homestead during the labor troubles there.

The Porters were prominent in the settlement of New Philadelphia, O., coming there from Pennsylvania. Mr. and Mrs. Coolbaugh were m. at Pana, Ill., 24 Dec. 1885. Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Coolbaugh made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Smothers, where she d. July 1935.

Mrs. Smothers relates: "I have heard my father tell so many stories about the intensely cold winter they had in Iowa at an early day, and how one time they had to burn even some of the household furnishings to keep from freezing to death when there was a raging blizzard outside. Also of the times when the grasshoppers came in such clouds that they darkened the light of the sun, and ate up all their crops. My father was a real pioneer and underwent many hardships.

"He was an enthusiastic G. A. R., and many were the 'Old Soldier Reunions' the whole family attended. He was a man much beloved by his comrades and friends, and many times I've seen them take him upon their shoulders and carry him in their parades. No matter how bitter or rainy the weather, he was always ready to go and partake of these celebrations.

"For many years he was Justice of the Peace. He was always a diligent worker for better public schools and school conditions, and I cannot remember the time when he was not a school director.

"In the year 1899, his health becoming somewhat impaired, it was deemed advisable to make a climatic change, so the family, in March 1899, moved to Wallis, Tex.

"Up to this time he had been a successful farmer, still living on the old homestead.

"Many were the parties which were given in farewell, and many the gifts, showing the high esteem in which he and mother were held.

"The final party was given in a large hall at Seney, Ia. (the nearest town). Friends came from LeMars and all around to bid us farewell. It was an old-fashioned party with an abundance of eats and games, and they here presented father and mother with a beautiful silver table service set, lined with gold, which is still in the family.

"When we arrived in Texas my father had a nice two-story home built, corner of Main and Rogers, also two store buildings, in one of which he operated a furniture store for a number of years, later retiring and renting his places of business.

"On I Dec. 1910 my father, who had spent such a happy, peaceful life, just as peacefully passed away in his sleep at 1 A. M. He had made many friends in his new home, and the pall bearers were some of the Confederate, as well as Union men, with whom he had loved to Reminisce."

MORRIS JACKSON COOLBAUGH, Jr. (No. 216) organized a bank at Stockton, Kans., in 1884, and was active in this business until his demise. He was identified with the welfare of Stockton during its entire earlier history. He was a man of ready sympathy and kindly impulses toward all mankind, which he carried out in every relation, public, private or social. We do not recall to have heard him speak ill of anybody. In his friendships—and his circle was very large—he was constant, generous and trusting. Ever ready to help with his means, he was withal conservative and careful in his business dealings, a wise and safe counsellor, and ever ready to use his finely trained talents in the service of others. No movement pertaining to the welfare of the community was proposed without seeking his advice, and he was ever ready to back enterprises that meant progress. He was indeed part of the community life, and his going was generally considered a calamity, for his hearty cooperation can no more be given. He was faithful and devoted in his religious life, a consistent church and Sunday School attendant, and a supporter of their activities. He accumulated quite a fortune and became quite well known through this section of the country, but after the great war he suffered reverses and sustained extensive losses.

ROBERT ROSS COOLBAUGH (No. 288) was a native of Smithfield Tp., and lived on the farm as a young man, first in Smithfield and later on the Coolbaugh property, Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg. For a while he engaged in the coal business, which he sold, and conducted the Fulmer Hotel, now the Penn-Stroud, for seven years, making improvements there and building up the business there materially. On relinquishing the hotel business, he sold insurance, with which he was connected at the time of his death.

He was an ardent Democrat, and one of the most ardent in the county. He took part in many campaigns, not only in his native county, but in the Congressional and Senatorial districts as well, and consequently had a very wide acquaintanceship. He was elected Democratic National delegate and represented his state in the Democratic National convention at Chicago which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt for president. He was a great admirer of the president and never swerved in his support, both before and after the nomination had been made. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1926, and was serving his second term in that office at the time of his untimely death. In the administration of his office he frequently proved counsellor and used his good offices in bringing litigants together in settlement of their differences. He enjoyed the confidence of all who had business relations with him. He was the unsuccessful candidate for county treasurer one time. He was of a very jovial disposition, readily making friends. He was an early member of the East Stroudsburg Lodge, No. 319, B.P.O. Elks and also of the Knights of Pythias, when that organization existed in the boro. He was a member of the Stroudsburg Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Coolbaugh m. 5 June 1902 MARY B. JACOBY, da. Benjamin S. and Elizabeth O. (Mackey) of Stroudsburg, whose ancestor, Jacob Jacobi, was in charge of one of the farms of the Moravian church corporation of South Bethelhem.

Mr. Coolbaugh met an accidental death in the following manner: He and his sons had loaded a small frame building, which had been used as a shelter for school children and others waiting for busses, on a wagon for the purpose of moving it on the Coolbaugh property. Mr. Coolbaugh and his sons were about to move the wagon, and Mr. Coolbaugh was about to step around the vehicle to steady the building, when he was struck by a truckload of coal, throwing him with much force to the concrete pave. He died in a very few minutes following the accident, which occurred 17 Dec. 1934. He was buried in the family plot, Stroudsburg cemetery.

In Memory of My Father

FRANKLIN MILTON COOLBAUGH

Who Passed Away June 20, 1929.

Dearest father, may you rest
Free from sickness, sorrow, pain,
Dwelling now among the blest
Never more to sigh again.
Angels now will guard you ever,
Pain no more will be your lot,
And I hope in that bright Haven
You have found a sunny spot,
Close beside the crystal river
Flowing by the sacred throne
In the midst of that bright Kingdom
Where we each shall find a home.
Though down here we'll ever miss you
Though your chair may vacant be,
Still within our hearts a deep, deep love
Will always burn for thee.
And our hearts are filled with hope
That when earthly cares are o'er
That the pearly gates will ope'
And we'll meet you at the door,
And we'll see your smile so gentle
Once again your hand we'll hold.
Where the old are young forever
And the young shall ne'er grow old.

BLANCHE COOLBAUGH.

In Memory of My Mother

LAURA CAMPBELL COOLBAUGH

Who Passed Away December 3, 1937.

Work is done—her cares are over
And bright lands ahead now loom
And our loved one's passed the portal
To a brighter Heavenly room—
Out of sight, not gone for ever
Eternal life, O! what a boon;
Heavenly duties now are calling
Busy in the other room.

She has left us for a moment,
Left us in the deepest gloom
She has stepped across the threshold
Just within the other room—
Shall we sit in doubt and sadness
When we know we'll see her soon
Just beyond the fading twilight
Waiting in the other room?

BLANCHE COOLBAUGH.

FRANKLIN MILTON COOLBAUGH (No. 352) was a native of North Towanda Tp., his early home having been above "Pail Factory" on Sugar creek. He received a common school education. He made his home with his grandfather Campbell, until he was sixteen years of age.

He then returned to his father's home in Terrytown, assisting the latter with the work about the farm. He continued to be occupied with farm work at various places until his marriage. Following this event he moved to New Albany, where he lived about eight years. Then he took up his residence at Apalachin, N. Y., where he worked on a farm five years. The family spent the following winter in Owego, and in the spring moved to Catatunk, N. Y. Then they located on "Mutton Hill" above Owego, where Mr. Coolbaugh was on a farm four years. The next two years our subject worked in a lumber yard at Newark, N. J., and in the winter returned to Apalachin. Then they went to Johnson City where Mr. Coolbaugh found employment in a factory where coal bags are made. He held this position about a year, and was in Johnson City about three years. While here he purchased a house and lot. Then he bought a farm between Windsor and Great Bend, where he passed the last ten years of his life. The farm continued 161 acres, well watered, upon which he kept a dairy of about fifteen cows, selling milk.

In politics Mr. Coolbaugh embraced Republicanism, and was of the Methodist religious persuasion. He m. 20 Dec. 1892 LAURA A. CAMPBELL, da. From here they moved to Lebanon, Ohio, where Mr. Coolbaugh entered the employ of the Valley View Dairy Farm. They had been here but a short time when the barns on the farm were destroyed by fire. They returned to Prattville where our subject purchased a farm of his own. He remained here two years, then sold the property and bought the Stanley Little farm in LeRaysville boro, where he lived about five years. Then, in 1927, he sold the farm and purchased his present home in LeRaysville, known as the Arthur Johnson house. At this time he embarked in the automobile sales and garage business, at which he has continued to be successfully engaged. He has the Chevrolet agency, and from the number of cars not only around LeRaysville, but at points a considerable distance from there, which bear his name, is sufficient proof of Mr. Coolbaugh's reputation as an active and trustworthy business man. During the time he occupied his farm in LeRaysville, and up until the spring of 1929, he also dealt extensively in livestock and its products:—poultry, sheep, calves, alive or dressed; wool, etc.

The Coolbaugh family have many friends in LeRaysville and surrounding territory, where Mr. Coolbaugh is regarded as one of the most substantial business men.

OTHERS OF THE NAME

From time to time during his research the author came across references or individuals not belonging to the William Coolbaugh family. We append here some notes regarding these, and, to facilitate indexing, these references have been attached to the numerical system of the main book.

The Census of 1790 for Pennsylvania shows two families of the name residing in Bedford county.

MICAEL COOLBOUGH (773); one free white male over 16, including heads of families; one free white male under 16; one free white female, including heads of families.

JOHN COWLBOUGH (774), two white males over 16, including heads of families; one free white male under 16; two free white females, including heads of families.

SALLY COOLBAUGH (775), b. Orange Co., N. Y., 20 July 1811. She

m. William G. Knapp, also a native of New York State, and they moved to Abington Tp., Lackawanna Co., Pa. We have no information as to the antecedents or other family connections of this Sally Coolbaugh.

COOLBAUGH. Another family of this name have sought a home in America within recent years, and is of Lithuanian descent. The father of the family in the old country was a farmer by occupation, and specialized in raising stallions. The home of the family was at Storrapully, a short distance from the German border. The children were:

776. Katie, a cripple, living in the old world.
777. John, m. Barbara ————.
778. George, m. ———— ————; came to this country with his brothers; no issue.
779. William, m. ———— ————; res. Duryea, Pa. 12 ch. One of his sons is a prize-fighter at Scranton.

JOHN COOLBAUGH (No. 777) migrated from his native land in 1884 and located at Bernice, Pa. He subsequently removed to Duryea, Pa., where he now resides. His wife's name was Barbara.

780. John Joseph, b. 4 Mar. 1884, had no schooling except what learning he picked up himself. He started to make his own way in the world at the early age of ten, driving mules in the mines at the meagre sum of five cents per hour. At fifteen he was receiving $1.10 for a ten-hour day. At this time he commenced running cars in the mines. This was followed by mining. Later he began operating electrical machinery, From this position he was advanced to that of a foreman in the mines at Bernice, Pa. 29 Jan. 1906 he m. Anna Kromer, da. Emanuel and Susan (Steiner) of Towanda, Pa , b. 18 Feb. 1882. No children. John Steiner, gf. of Susan, came from Wurtemberg, Germany in 1818 and settled in Carbon Co., Pa., from whence he removed to Cherry Tp., Sullivan Co., Pa., in 1837. Mr. Coolbaugh is a member of Bernice Lodge, No. 962, I. O. O. F.; and of Katonka Tribe, No. 336, Red Men. Mrs. Coolbaugh is one of the most active members of Lady Davis Rebeckah Lodge, No. 39, of Bernice; and of Sapana Council, No. 235, of the Pocahontas, and is a prominent official in the higher degrees of that order. Both are communicants of Christ Church Episcopal, Towanda, and favor the Republican party in politics.

781. Joseph, m. Nellie Beaver, da. Theodore of Lopez, Pa.; res. Duryea, Pa.
782. Lewis, m. ———— Allen; res. Carbondale, Pa. One da., who m. ———— ————.
783. Stanley, m. ———— ————; res. Duryea, Pa.; 1 son.
784. Susan, m. Isaac Hall.

JOHN D. COOLBAUGH (785), and CELIA M. COOLBAUGH (786) both residents of San Francisco, Calif., are undoubtedly descendants of the William Coolbaugh family, but as requests for information were ignored, their proper registration was impossible.

What Does It Matter?

It matters little where I was born,
Or if my parents were rich or poor;
Whether they shrank from the cold world's scorn,
Or walked in the pride of wealth secure.
But whether I live an honest man,
And hold my integrity firm in my clutch,
I tell you, my brother, plain as I can,
It matters much!

It matters little where be my grave,
If on land, or in the sea,
By purling brook, or 'neath stormy wave,
It matters little, or nought to me;
But whether the angel of death comes down
And marks my brow with a loving touch,
As the one who shall wear the victor's crown,
It matters much!
